Pottery show

Head to The Fine Art Society in London and Edinburgh this month to see sculptural vessels by Waistel Cooper (1921-2003). The exhibition will explore the role that the studio potter – a contemporary of Hans Coper and Lucie Rie – played in the evolution of the art form with more than 70 of his pieces on show across the two galleries, including those pictured here, all available to buy. From January 14 to February 18. thefineartsociety.com

INTRODUCING: Sergio Roger

One of our favourite discoveries during Milan Design Week last year was textile artist Sergio Roger, whose playful fabric busts (above left), statues and ionic columns (with Sergio above right) were shown in the basement of Rossana Orlandi's gallery. The Barcelona-based artist studied at Berlin's College of Fine Arts, where he focused on sculpture and new media, and began to experiment with what he describes as 'soft sculptures'. Inspired by the classical world, the pieces are crafted from remnants of antique linen, which he stitches, drapes and quilts to resemble the Greek and Roman stone originals. 'I wanted to challenge our perception of permanence by using an unexpected material,' explains Sergio, whose pieces were on display at Christie's, SW1, for Classic Week last December. sergioroger.com

WALLS TO ORDER

Custhom, the south London-based design studio known for its impactful wallpapers, has launched Wallpaper by You, a new service that allows customers to create a bespoke design. There are myriad combinations, and customers receive an A2 sample to approve before their wallpaper is hand-printed. Shown here is the 'Accent' design. From £195 for a 10-metre roll. custhom.co.uk ▶
